RECOGNIZE AND PREVENT REPETITIVE STRESS INJURIES

Repetitive stress injuries, or RSIs, can impact muscles, ligaments, tendons, and nerves. Though The Mayo Clinic estimates that three million people in the United States are affected by such injuries, some may not fully understand just how they reached a point where they are suffering from an RSI. RSIs are a condition that occurs when too much stress is placed on one part of the body, typically a joint, over and over again, resulting in inflammation and potential tissue damage. RSIs typically happen when a person repeats the same movements again and again. It comes as no surprise then that RSIs are commonly experienced by athletes and office workers. The elderly are most affected by RSIs, but these types of injuries are also known to occur in younger adults and children. These injuries tend to develop over time and tend to go unnoticed in their early stages. Prevention is the best defense against RSIs. Start by using proper equipment at all times to help keep the body protected and in neutral positions. Such equipment may include support devices for wrists or knees, and shoes that fit well and provide ample support. Athletes should make sure their gear is properly sized to their bodies. Using the wrong size tennis racket, for example, may contribute to elbow strain when serving and hitting. Proper nutrition also is key. Consuming the right foods is essential to developing and maintaining strong muscles, which help support joints in the body. Speak with a doctor or nutritionist if you suspect your diet has room for improvement. RSIs can be troublesome for office workers. Maintaining neutral body positioning is the best defense against pain and injury, according to the pain prevention resource Tifaq.com. Tifaq.com suggests following these procedures in addition to stretching and exercising at the office:

- Keep your head level, forward facing and in line with your torso.
- Feet should be flat on the floor or on a footrest.
- Shoulders can be relaxed and arms hanging normally at your sides. Your elbows should be at about 90-degree angles.
- Support your back with a lumbar support or a small pillow.
- Position your monitor so it is directly in front of you and at eye level.
- Take frequent breaks to stretch or take a walk around the office.

Examples of RSIs include carpal tunnel syndrome, rotator cuff injuries, tendonitis, and trigger finger. Always consult with a doctor if pain from routine activities is persistent. Individuals may benefit from working with a physical therapist to learn strategies to avoid RSI activities.

Windsor Press, Inc.
OFFICE HOURS Mon. - Fri. 8am to 5pm

We have officially entered the Golden Age of the Internet, where having a website for your business is an absolute essential. So where's your website? The Windsor Press offers affordable website design and hosting of your new website. An effective website is the cornerstone of any small business's marketing strategy, offering fundamental information 24 hours a day. There are multiple reasons why you need a website today:

WEBSITES NEVER SLEEP

Websites never take a break, even after business hours are over, customers still have the opportunity to browse your business's website. A website will allow your business to be open 24 hours a day, every day of the year - that's the equivalent to having an employee work around the clock, even weekends and holidays!

INCREASES THE EFFECTIVENESS OF YOUR ADVERTISING

Print advertisements are definitely effective components in the advertising mix, but it's the website that strengthens your company's message. Once you have a website up and running, we recommend your print advertising include your website address.

"GOOGLE IT"

How many times have you heard "I'll Google it?" More than ever before, people are turning away from traditional means of finding information and looking online. Your business should be at customer's fingertips when they look on any online search engine.

INSTANT CREDIBILITY

Have you ever had difficulty making that sale? Or convincing someone that you are the real deal? Having a website is comparable to having an online business card, containing basic information on you and your offerings, along with a way to reach you.

CONTACT KATIE AT THE WINDSOR PRESS TODAY FOR YOUR NEW WEBSITE

Don't be so quick to dismiss your product as one that can't be sold online. Nowadays, there's very little that can't be sold over the internet. No matter the size of your business, it is crucial to have an online presence for customers to quickly and easily find out more about your business and the products or services you have to offer.
